

“Terrorism is carried out purposefully, in a cold-blooded, calculated fashion. The declared goals of the terrorist may change from place to place. He supposedly fights to remedy wrongs – social, religious, national, racial. But for all these problems his only solution is the demolition of the whole structure of society. No partial solution, not even the total redressing of the grievance he complains of, will satisfy him – until our social system is destroyed or delivered into his hands.”

TERROR WILL CONTINUE ... A FEW THOUGHTS POST LONDON ACTIVITIES OF LAST FRIDAY.

Our desensitized reaction to Islamic terror is a testament to our sanitization from truth and statistics, the woke-ness of liberals in scrubbing Islam of Islamic Jihad, and the left's welcomed installment of ISIS as the only criticisable actor.

Post every Islamic act of terror, government officials will spew the same reactionary malarkey: "This act will not divide us. We do not fear." Nothing will be said about preventing future Islamic terror. They know (and we know) - there are no preventive measures against Islam aspiring death for Allah, religious requirement to get rid of infidels, and Muslim-rearing in theocratic dictatorships with unquestioned supremacy of Sharia Law. They also know that it's much too late once Islam impregnates society.

Today, there are 20,000 Islamic Jihadists on the British watch list. 37 acts of terror resulting in 100 deaths have been carried out in Britain alone since 2001. Thousands have been averted.

Until every surviving victim of terror, or their next of kin, will sue their government for allowing unvetted Islam to infiltrate, for early prison releases, and for allowing those on their watch lists to walk the streets...terror will continue.

Nothing to Worry About: London Bridge Jihadi Was Safely 'Deradicalized'

London Bridge jihad murderer Usman Khan was at Cambridge University Friday, attending a prisoner rehabilitation conference, when he suddenly decided to demonstrate the effectiveness of the "deradicalization" process: Khan stabbed Jack Merritt, 25, to death at what the Daily Mail called a "prisoner rehabilitation conference that paired jailed killers with students and held creative writing workshops."

This universal failure is no surprise. Deradicalization programs are based on a false premise: that jihadis are misunderstanding Islam and misinterpreting the Qur'an, and can simply be shown the error of their ways. If the true teachings of Islam are peaceful, then all that needs to be done is show the jihadis how they're overlooking all the peace, and all will be well. But since the Qur'an and Sunnah are full of commands to make war against and subjugate unbelievers, the idea that jihadis can be “deradicalized” by reference to them is just a myth told to infidel authorities to lull them into complacency.

Free to Roam: Hate preacher Anjem Choudary who 'inspired' London Bridge killer pictured on our streets

VILE hate preacher Anjem Choudary is roaming our streets today after 'inspiring' the London Bridge terror attack. Shameless Choudary, 52, was pictured in east London wearing an ankle tag after his disciple Usman Khan butchered two in a murderous rampage last Friday.

Anjem Choudary was notorious for spreading hate for years but was able to evade justice for a decade despite ties to known terrorists such as the Lee Rigby's killer Michael Adebolajo. In 2016 he was finally nailed along with a key deputy for inciting support for ISIS. Since his release last year he lives under the toughest licence conditions ever imposed, including a ban on mixing with his former al-Muhajiroun disciples.

ANJEM'S TERROR LINKS

1 7/7
Anjem Choudary refused to condemn the 7/7 bombings and on the first anniversary of the attack that claimed 52 lives he said Muslims in Britain "were oppressed" and had the right to defend themselves "by whatever means".

2 POPPY PROTEST
Anjem's "good friend" Emdadur Choudhury was fined £50 after poppies were burned during two minutes silence on Remembrance Day 2010. He refused to pay so Anjem picked up the bill.

3 LONDON BRIDGE TERROR
One of Choudary's former followers, Khuram Butt, was under active investigation by MI5 when he and two other attackers targeted and killed eight innocent people in the London Bridge attack in 2017.

4 LEE RIGBY MURDER
On May 22 2013 Choudary refused to condemn the murder of soldier Lee Rigby, and said the killers - who were linked to his terror group al-Muhajiroun - would go to paradise for their actions.

5 RAF LAKENHEATH
Detectives believed Choudary was again behind the radicalisation of delivery driver Junead Khan, from Luton. He was jailed for life in 2016 after plotting to kill US servicemen outside airbase RAF Lakenheath in Suffolk.

6 LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE PLOT
Six of the nine men convicted for plotting to bomb the London Stock Exchange had been personally taught by Choudary

It's time to get real about Islamist terror

Censorship and cowardice have helped radical Islam to flourish. It's time for a change. We've seen this for years now. Even to use the i-word — Islam — in relation to recent acts of terrorism is frowned upon. Anyone who gets angry about these attacks, whether it was 7/7 in 2005, the slaughter at the Manchester Arena in 2017 or yesterday's stabbings, risks being denounced as 'Islamophobic'. The left, including the left that currently runs the Labour Party, is myopically devoted to distracting attention from the Islamist threat. 'What about the far right?', they'll say. Such cynical and spineless whataboutery wilfully overlooks that the far right has not killed anywhere near 500 people in Europe over the past five years — Islamists, on the other hand, have. 'Don't look back in anger', we are told after Islamist attacks. In short, lay a flower, be sad for a day, and then move on — whatever you do, don't talk about it.

The United Nations is as inane and worthless a policy objective as could possibly be devised. The UN is a moribund and corrupt organization that instead of providing a first step to world government is primal scream therapy for the world's most poorly and despotically governed and economically impoverished countries. Canada would make an important contribution to the world if it proposed serious reforms to the UN, tying voting rights to respect for defined human rights.

Bill 21 is partly a reaction to Islamist annoyances, but it is mainly a group affirmation of the triumph of atheism in Quebec. History indicates that that may not always be considered a liberation; religious practice fluctuates and has never been durably eradicated. But since the entire society is invested in the liberation myth, too much hostility from English Canada, and especially the federal government, could, as Peter White wrote, be dangerous for Canada.

The Rise of the Organized Muslim Vote in Canada

Demography is destiny, as the saying goes. Yet people are sheepish about discussing this issue. It's considered politically incorrect to even acknowledge that the Muslim population – and therefore the Muslim vote – is increasing in Canada faster than other groups. No wonder. The whole thing that spurred the human rights tribunal battles involving Mark Steyn over a decade ago was an essay that appeared in Maclean's breaking down the population numbers game and what it means for the future. You can talk about this or you can ignore it. You can see it as a positive, negative or neutral phenomenon. But whatever your take, there's no denying that the Muslim vote in Canada is growing and so is its influence.

They provide these downtrodden people with not only food and shelter but also human warmth and love. And they offer the people they care for the one thing most likely to get them out of their predicament: meaning. They offer it; they do not coerce it. And while the vehicle for this meaning — Christian faith — may not be your faith or mine, so what? It takes a truly narrow-minded bigot to want to deprive people of meaning just because that meaning is rooted in faith or in a faith other than their own. Yet, leftists — most especially LGBTQ groups, which spread a remarkable amount of hate in the name of "love" — seek to crush The Salvation Army.

Journalists Against Free Speech

All editors and publishers can take a couple of basic steps. One is to concentrate on hiring journalists committed to the most important kind of diversity: a wide range of ideas open for vigorous debate. The other step is even simpler: stop capitulating. Ignore the online speech police, and don't reward the staff censors, either. Instead of feeling their pain or acceding to their demands, give them a copy of Nat Hentoff's Free Speech for Me—but Not for Thee. If they still don't get it—if they still don't see that free speech is their profession's paramount principle—tactfully suggest that their talents would be better suited to another line of work.

Our Man at NATO: Trump Suddenly Finds Success

As the NATO meeting takes place, another, more vivid success of Mr. Trump's foreign policy can be seen in the tumult and upheavals in Iran. ## ISRAEL/PALESTINIAN AUTHORITY

One Key Reason Why Trump Is a Truly Great American President

Trump stated that denying Israel the right that every nation had, to determine its own capital, was a challenge to its very status as an independent nation: "Israel is a sovereign nation with the right like every other sovereign nation to determine its own capital. Acknowledging this as a fact is a necessary condition for achieving peace."

Enraged, Mahmoud Abbas severed all diplomatic contact between the Palestinian Authority and the United States. But unlike his predecessors, Trump was not intimidated, and moved swiftly to make the embassy move a reality: the new U.S. embassy in Jerusalem opened on May 14, 2018, the seventieth anniversary of Israel's independence. If future historians are just judges, they will mark that as the day the U.S. stopped submitting to bullying and began moving toward a more realistic foreign policy.

Norway Qur'an-burning is being seized upon to justify imposing international blasphemy laws

Even though one may object to burning the Qur'an (I do; I'd rather people read and study it), it is a matter of the freedom of expression. If someone burns the Bible, or the Bhagavad Gita, or The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, or any other book, no one will mind. Burning the Qur'an, however, violates Islamic blasphemy law. By accepting that burning the Qur'an is something that should be restricted and even criminalized, as many in the West have done, Western authorities are opening the door for the establishment of Muslims as a special class that is above the law, and for the introduction of more Sharia into their countries. They're striking a massive blow against one of the core principles of their society, the freedom of speech.

Today’s worldwide clash between globalism and national sovereignty is reflected in American politics. The Leftist/Globalist axis has attacked the America-first agenda of President Donald Trump and repeatedly attempted

The difference between global trade and globalism is being intentionally blurred to disguise globalism's sinister objective of a New World Order of internationalized one-world government. One of the essential requirements for national sovereignty is a national currency. The United States dollar is our country's national currency. Globalists Kelly Loeffler and her husband Jeffrey Sprecher support the internationalized cryptocurrency they are promoting with Bakkt where trades will be conducted with Bitcoin instead of fiat currency like the U.S. dollar.

When Marc Lépine (Gamil Rodrique Gharbi) entered École Polytechnique on December 6, 1989 with his legally registered Ruger-14 firearm (having earlier completed a firearms safety course), his intention was to massacre women. His years of abuse and eventual abandonment by his Algerian father, a man totally contemptuous of women, cloned a son who turned into a woman-hater too.

The best way to remember the 14 women who died on December 6, 1989 at École Polytechnique in Montreal is to recommit ourselves, women and men, to the fight for women's liberation and an end to violence against women. Today there will once again be vigils across the country. Let us
